

WARKENTIN TO BE DEFENDING NATIONAL DECATHLON TITLE

PORTERVILLE — National decathlon champion John Warkentin of Fresno will be defending his title against a field of approximately 20 top-ranking amateur athletes, two having broken the 8,000 point mark in decathlon competition.

Warkentin, who won last year's meet at South Lake Tahoe with 8,026 points, will face Russ Hodge, former world record holder from Fresno, 8,230 points; and Jeff Bennett, representing the U.S. Army with 8,072 points.

A number of other athletes possessing over 8,000 points have as yet failed to enter officially. The remaining entrants are well over the 7,000 mark.

Entertaining during the two day meet will be Buck Shaffer directing a band composed of both Porterville and Monache high school students.

Porterville Mayor Larry Cotta will welcome visiting dignitaries who will include Congressman Bob Mathias; Rafer Johnson, two-time gold medal Olympic Games Decathlon winner; Robert Keyes, assistant to Governor Ronald Reagan for community relations; Assemblyman Gordon Duffy; United States Senator Howard Way; and former Porterville high school athlete Bill Sharman, who now manages and coaches the champion Utah Stars of the American Basketball association.

The field of entrants may still open to include athletes who haven't attained the required 7,000 points if the meet co-directors Allan Nelson and Don Kavadas deem them capable of scoring competitively.

High school relay teams have been invited to participate in special 440 relays, mile relays, and 100 yard runs during breaks in the decathlon competition. Schools invited so far are Corona Del Mar, San Diego seniors, Northern California seniors, Rhodens Interprises, Central California seniors, and Southern California seniors.

COTTON ADVISORY COMMITTEE FAVORING PINK BOLLWORM REGULATIONS AND GIN CLOSING DATES

VISALIA — Tulare County Cotton Advisory committee, appointed by Russell Hesse, a member of the State Cotton Pest Control board, at a meeting held recently in Visalia, went on record as favoring strict control of pink bollworm regulations and a set date for closing all valley wide cotton gins.

Roscoe Honeycutt, from Woodville and chairman of the ad hoc committee which consists of cotton growers and industry representatives, stated the purpose of the committee is to "work with county, state, and federal agricultural officials to help prevent infestation of the pink bollworm in the San Joaquin valley."

Honeycutt emphasized the importance of growers complying with regulations as the valley's multi-million dollar cotton crop is in jeopardy from the pink bollworm.

By unanimous vote the committee issued a resolution calling for the following regulations: Enforcement of the present laws on pink bollworm control; uniform standards on plowdown for the entire valley; and a valley wide gin closure date.

"We believe the three items in the resolution presented by the cotton committee are essential if San Joaquin cotton growers are to avoid the damage and infestation which has occurred in the Imperial valley," said Honeycutt.

The next meeting of the State Cotton Pest Control board is scheduled for 10:00 a.m., June 17, in the State Building auditorium, 2550 Mariposa Street, Fresno. All cotton growers, ginners, oil mill operators, farm advisors, and other interested parties are invited to attend.

Sunkist Products Division To Be "Most Efficient In The World"

PORTERVILLE — Sunkist Grower's orange products division will soon be one of the most efficient products plants in the world, Jim Neu, the division's general manager, told Porterville Farm Bureau center members at their May dinner meeting held in the Paul Bunyan restaurant.

He said the Ontario plant is trying to level out peaks and valleys in marketing through inventory control, importing concentrates, and including non-citrus projects in their operation.

Starting with marmelade in 1914, the orange products division was bankrupt by 1918, reorganized in 1920, and today is worth $26 million. He said his sole purpose at Sunkist is to continue this growth rate by developing whatever projects Sunkist submits to him.

One such project is a Valencia exchange program with Florida growers. In this program, he said, qualities of California valencias, high acidic content, good color and body, are mixed with Florida's low acidic, pale colored oranges, resulting in a

Editorial Comment

BUYERS MAKE THE SALE

Part of the excitement of the livestock auction at the Porterville fair each year is the price paid for grand champion animals - and who buys them.

This year Ben Webb, of Sequoia Volkswagen, paid 75 cents a pound for Richard Bennett's grand champion steer; Assemblyman Gordon Duffy paid $2.50 a pound for Brent Scranton's grand champion lamb; and Loren Schmid, representing Mineral King Savings and Loan association, paid 75 cents a pound for Dennis Moench's grand champion hog, with buyers and sellers shown in photos.

Coming in for reserve champions were Williams Jewelers, 75 cents for Pat Bennett's steer; Wall's Livestock, $2.75 for Henry Muller's lamb; and Save Center Market, of Lindsay, $1.00 for Eric Sellers' hog.

And a lot of other folks got into the act, buying 249 animals in a sale that totalled $47,087.44, with 80 head of beef at an average 44½ cents, returning $32,743.21; 109 head of lambs, at an average 84 cents, returning $8,813.11; and 60 hogs, at an average 42 cents, returning $5,531.12, making the 1971 sale a "hot sale" indeed when the market price of livestock is considered.

So once again, the Porterville fair's junior market livestock auction represented a fine community effort, aimed at giving Future Farmers and 4-H livestock exhibitors a little something extra for a lot of extra work in finishing and fitting their show and sale animals.

We indicated in last week's column that the happy outlook was for warm weather virtually uninterrupted by rain. As a result we had a downpour unequalled in sixty five years. However we still believe that pleasant days are ahead and you will be rewarded with more typical Porterville weather - weather that will allow for swimming, barbecuing, and gardening.

You will also be rewarded with shade tree weather. We just happen to have numerous shade trees and would be most happy to show them to you. We would also like to point out that you are not limited to Modesto Ash and Fruitless Mulberry. There are many other trees that may be better for your particular location. You might need a small tree such as Photinia, Wax Leaf, Carolina Cherry, or Hopseed. These are pretty, evergreen, and easy to grow. You might also prefer a little larger tree but one that is different. If so have a look at Gingko, Chinese Pistachio, Tulip Tree, Alder, Catalpa, or one of the other unusual types that are available. If you like a little color in your life there are lilacs, crepe myrtle, althea, red leaf plum, silk tree, and vitex trees to add this touch. However if you go around with your nose on the ground we still have petunias, marigolds, and a lot of other stuff.
